

N 3

IRAN

22 September 1961

CPYRGHT

It is our aim that democracy shall prevail throughout Iran and not be limited to Kurdistan. Those Kurds who live in Iran are aware that it will not be possible to overthrow the Shah single-handed. The entire nation, from all different provinces, must unite and replace this old coup d'etat regime with fraternity and democracy. The enemy of the Kurd is the Shah and Anglo-American colonialism. What the Kurds have in mind is unity, and not secession. Let the colonialists be assured that the Kurdish nation will not be deviated from its path of campaign. They intend to make their unity with their Iranian brothers even stronger. There will be a day that Teheran will no longer be referred to as the capital of butchers, but the friendly city of brothers.

NATIONAL VOICE HITS CIA-CREATED REGIME

National Voice of Iran (Clandestine) in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT
20 September 1961--M

(Talk: "What the Shah's Friends Say about Him")

(Text) Dear fellow-countrymen: The Western press has recently published certain facts about the antinational nature of the coup d'etat regime and, with convincing reasoning, they consider the regime doomed to fall and our national struggles to overthrow it and to establish a national government bound to be victorious. We confine ourselves to mention only two viewpoints in this connection:

A book has recently been published in London entitled: "The Spy Master," (Persian: Ostade Jasusi) by two Englishmen named (Bob Edwards and Kenneth Donn?). The book consists of several chapters on events in Iran, Guatemala, and Lebanon, explaining the CIA's interference in these areas. The book also describes, in a special chapter, America's interference in overthrowing the legal government of Dr. Mossadeq in bringing the Shah back to Teheran after his escape to Rome. The chapter includes the following: One of the obvious examples of the CIA's interference is the overthrow of Dr. Mossadeq's Government in 1953.

Now that we look back at the events of those days we see that the overthrow of the nationalist regime of Iran, which was threatening the interests of oil monopolists by its actions, was engineered by Allen Dulles. This is an undeniable fact. His direct (agents?) in this connection were: Former U.S. under secretary of state Loy Henderson, former General Schwarzkopf, and General Zahedi. Now what the west has gained from the coup d'etat is a question. We doubted very much that Mr. Dulles' action could maintain Iran within the western sphere of influence. Despite the passage of seven years in the life of the coup d'etat our misgivings still remain.